Publisher's Podium The Great Name Change Game

It's been an interesting journey from Pulse to wholenote. One reader, very early on, said "...you will probably get many, many letters from readers telling you how wonderful PULSE is." True enough! And we did.

"... Your excellent magazine" (Brian Wilson, North York); "What a good idea! (Pulse, that is.)" (Patty Llossa, New York); "I appreciate it & enjoy it very much." (Elena, Etobicoke); "...most useful, entertaining ... constantly growing and improving magazine." (Fred Kurban, North York); "a tremendous asset in assessing what is playing...." (Steve Living, Borough of York); "the source for concert information." (Douglas Schalin, Toronto); "entertaining and informative" (Mohsen Boctor and Nadia Lebar Boctor, Etobicoke).

Many of the early letters recommended staying with some variation of "pulse". Inclined that way ourselves at first, we considered "Puls@TO", "TO.Pulse", and

"ImPulse" and "SimPulse" (Chris Dawes) and "Re-Pulse" (Ruth Budd) and "Plus" and "Pulsate" (a real crowd favourite).

But then the tide started to turn. None of the x-Pulse names was as simply musical as the original. What about future readers who'd never heard of Pulse?

We decided the new name would have to stand on its own.

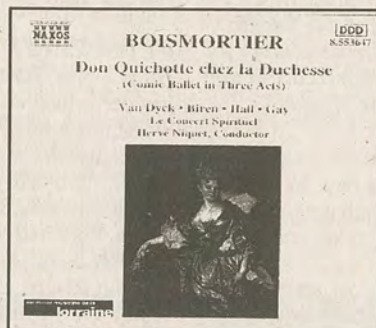

That very day it arrived:..."My suggestion is: The Whole Note. You could do whimsical things with the graphics. (Joy Gordon, Toronto)

We started rolling it round our mouths (along with "Keynotes" and "Acora" and "Courante"). Slept on it.

Concert Notes

April is exploding with music, even by Toronto standards. Take 3pm Sunday April 6 for example. Is there a category for simultaneous downtown beats in the Guinness Book of World Records?

(That particular day, by the way sets a Pulse/wholenote record for most concerts on one day.)

All this to say, our approach in these concert notes is even more scattergun and haphazard than usual.

YOUTH SERVES

April 5 East York Symphony, and violinist, Timothy Haig, winner of this year's Kiwanis Youth Competition, perform Ravel's Tzigane, (a work performed by Jacques Israelievitch at his 1967 Paris debut recital). Also on the program is Samuel Barber's wonderful Adagio for Strings.

DUCK!

Was it bassoon or oboe that once got defined as an ill-wind that nobody blows down?

Whichever, if your favourite character in Peter & the Wolf was the duck, you should hightail it to Gary Armstrong Woodwinds' Canadian Oboe Festival April 5 & 6.

It includes a concert featuring many of the best oboe players in Canada as well as leading American oboist, Richard Killmer, professor of oboe at the Eastman Music School. For more information about the festival, phone Gary Armstrong Woodwinds at 535-6000.

TROUT

April 8 the fourth concert in the Associates of the Toronto Symphony series features four of the Toronto Symphony's best string players with pianist, Lydia Wong. Program includes Franz Schubert's "Trout" Quintet, Op.114.

PETER WHO?

He is a phenomenal musician, has performed around the world, made many recordings and composed a great deal of music. Originally from Czechoslovakia, he lives in North York and will, at last, perform there, April 10th at the Weston Recital Hall with the North York Symphony. He is Peter Breiner, and he will both conduct the orchestra and play piano in this concert.

LAST IN SERIES

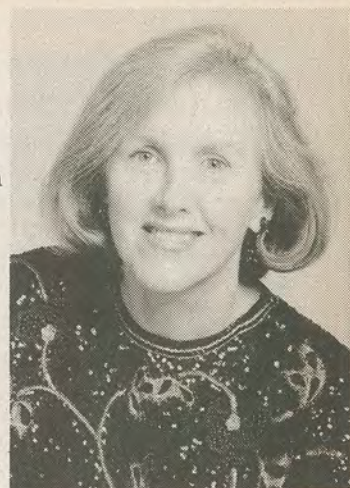

In quite a different vein, the award-winning Toronto-based Canadian piano duo, Popov and Vona will play "popular-music-oriented classics", including George Gershwin's An American in Paris and Claude Bolling's Sonata for Two Pianists. This event on April 12 at St. Paul's Anglican Church, is the last in their series, "Music at the Big Church".

BUSY SPRING

The Toronto Children's Chorus, directed by Jean Ashworth Bartle (right), has plans for a busy spring.

April 19 & 20 its spring concert, "Celebrate Spring" with soprano, Catherine Robbin includes three world premieres by Canadian composers. May 2 they perform with the Elmer Iseler Singers. Then May 6-11 the choir welcomes music educators and conductors from across the continent to its 5th Annual Choral Conductors Symposium.

CMC UNIQUE

The Canadian Music Competitions occupy a unique place in the Canadian music scene.

Started in 1959 as the Quebec

Music Competitions, they have spread across the country, filling a need for a music competition that could prepare students for and propel them into international competition.

According to Gabriel Leung, music director of the competitions, the list of alumni of the competitions reads like a who's who of Canadian musicians and includes Louis Lortie, Ofra Harnoy, Angela Cheng and Martin Beaver.

A non-profit organization, staffed by volunteers, "the Competitions" receives donations from corporations such as Yamaha Canada and also generate funds from selling tickets to concerts like the Sunday Matinee in Mississauga on April 6 and the CMC Gala concert on Sunday, April 27 at the Glenn Gould Studio. (The latter concert features recent winners of the Competitions - violinist, Eugene Nakamura, oboist, Joseph Salvalaggio, cellist, Rachel Mercer and pianist (and M.D.), Jason Li.)

NEW "MUSICTHEATREMUSIC" SHINGLE MAKES FOR STRANGE STABLEMATES!

There are 26 shows under our MUSICTHEATREMUSIC shingle this month. Quite a range too.

PILGRIM

One of the most unusual is St. James' Cathedral's A

Pilgrim in Time, described by its producers as "a new work about history, community, faith and journey".

The production staff are theatre pros specializing in community-based theatre. As such their commitment is to the piece as art and to helping community participants in reach their own potential.

The production will thus be shaped, to an unusual degree, by its participants' skills and interests. Pilgrim in Time runs three days only.

Canadian Stage Company's current mustheat venture is Stephen Sondheim and James Lapine's recent musical, Passion, described in their promo as "a compelling tale of love's reckless, relentless, fury, and its power to shatter or redeem." Whew.

Passion runs April 7 to May 10 (by which time, everyone will no doubt be exhausted!).

On the community front, Robert Wright and George Forrest's adaptation of Borodin, Kismet, produced by the Scarborough Choral Society, plays April 11-13 and 17-19. And Curtain Call Players' production of Lionel Bart's Oliver runs April 17-19 and 24-26.

Watch for Toronto Operetta Theatre's Canadian premiere of Antonin Dvorak's opera, Rusalka, a mere 96 years after its original European premiere!

And watch for PM Productions' remount of their debut rock-musical Job and the Snake at Trinity Basement Theatre, 619 Sherbourne Street.

(Among the 10 ensemble leads is recording artist, Kevin

Connelly, whom Nick Krewen of the Hamilton Spectator called "one of the best tenors Canada has produced" Even if he's only half right...

Also in April, Opera Atelier will remount its production of G.F. Handel's Acis and Galatea, his masterpiece, more performed in his lifetime than anything else he wrote. This production will introduce to Toronto audiences two English tenors, Richard Edgar Wilson and Matthew Hargreaves. This production of Handel's "salon" piece features authentic costumes and a "period" orchestra conducted by David Fallis.

And watch out for two productions involving children during this period. First is Shevchenko Musical Ensemble's Peter and the Wolf at the Betty Oliphant Theatre on Sunday April 6.

The second is the Canadian Children's Opera Chorus H.M.S.'s Pinafore at Hart House Theatre at the beginning of May.

Like the proverbial chewing gum, the name lost none of its flavour on the bedpost overnight, so we decided to go with it. Jerry Ginsberg designed our fine new banner, and here we are. We think it's a name to grow with, and hope it sits well with you.

All that remains is to thank you for your interest, and to name our other four "winners" though in reality we could just as well have named fifty.
Every idea submitted helped us on our way.

The winners are John "Tempo - 'cos
while there's Pulse there's life" Ferth; Diana "TMFKAP, and I really want a ticket" Coatsworth; Brian "Sax and Violins" Wilson; and Fred "notification, location & time...Music Bridge" Kurban.
