TABLE OF CONTENTS, JUNE, 1997

Our cover: The Gryphon Trio—Jamie Parker, piano; Annalee Patipatnakoon, violin; Roman Borys, cello

So quixotic is the idea of even attempting to make a career of playing chamber music, that in the presence of people daring to dream the dream you can only cast scepticism to the wind.

Roman Borys and Annalee Patipatnakoon’s dream goes back a way: undergraduate studies together, at Yale University at the same time another illustrious cellist, Shauna Rolston, was there; then graduate studies at Indiana, and the formation in 1985 of a pianó trio coached by Menahem Pressler with another Canadian, a Quebecker named Marie Fabi.

This group, under the name, Trio Lyrika, moved straight into the professional world, playing together until the end of 1992 when Marie left and Jamie Parker, the pianist in the group joined Roman and Annalee. The rest, as they say, is history. ........................................ Page 5

BLIP TIME
Presenters, please note, we are approaching one of the two “blips” in our season, where we cover two months in one issue. Our next set of deadlines (June 15 for listings, June 20 for advertising) is for our customary combined July-August issue. Listings later than that may end up in the netherworld of “too late to list”!

And if you are one of the brave souls planning to put on a concert in the city during the summer, by the way, more power to you!

There are lots of music-thirsty people who remain city-bound in the summer. And we’ll do our level best to help you spread the word.

But again, please! June 15 is your WholeNote deadline for the whole summer.

CHOICES AHEAD
Ahead of us lies our third season, often a critical year for small publications. To help us navigate the shoals, we’ve commenced some systematic market research.

So if you’re one of the lucky 700 people who’ve received a questionnaire in your current copy of wholenote, please take the time to respond. What wholenote becomes is largely in your hands.

Musicians in our Midst: Portrait #2

Stephanie Bogle

Stephanie Bogle has been a singer all her adult life. After graduating from the Opera School at the University of Toronto she received a Canada Council grant to study with Vera Rosza and Robert Keys in London, England. Her good fortune, while there, was seeing and hearing some of opera's greatest rehearse and perform. From these - Sutherland, Pavarotti, Vickers and Stratas - she learned the musical dedication and passion that underlies convincing portrayal of character in opera.

And later in workshops with renowned Tito Gobbi in Italy, she gained insight into the kind of detailed preparation which underlies the discovery of a role.

After completing her studies in England Stephanie went to Germany where she sang for eight years in opera houses. Based in Toronto since 1984, she began teaching at the Royal Conservatory of Music and at Queen's University in 1990.

While teaching it became apparent to her that there was a need for something to enable singers to bridge the gap between music school and the professional world – concentrated and rigorous stylistic work in specialized areas of repertoire; gaining expertise in doing auditions; understanding what is required to have a career as a professional singer.

In 1994 she founded Creative Artist Productions (CAP) to fill this need. Through weekend workshops and a month long summer workshop, students (singers, vocal coaches and stage directors) receive personal attention and feedback from the best professional talent in the country – people like Dwight Bennett, Marshall Pynkoski, David Fallis and Brahm Goldhammer.

As artists, she says, we have the power to create what we need and what we want. By translating her own vision into reality, Stephanie is transmitting not only an artistic tradition but also a confidently creative approach to life.

GRYPHON TRIO: DARING TO DREAM

Roman Borys, cellist in the Gryphon Trio’s enthusiasm for his ensemble is irresistible, and events bear him out. The group has toured Europe several times under the auspices of Jeunesses Musicales, and widely in North America.

A look through the reviews is revealing – suffice it to say that the European critics heaped praise on the Trio, not merely for their technical excellence but also for the level of communication between them, their sound and the subtlety of their interpretation.

Happily, they are getting work near home too. Among other things, they have performances with the Guelph Spring Festival and the Festival of the Sound, this spring and summer.

In the fall they are touring the Maritimes and Newfoundland, a tour organized by Debut Atlantic, an artistic umbrella organization so successful that something similar has now been started in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Closer to home, on June 5 they are playing one of the Northern Encounters free noon hour concerts at the Glenn Gould Studio and on June 9th are doing their own concert at the Premier Dance Theatre. This is a major concert in which the trio will be playing mature compositions by Smetana, Beethoven, Dvorak and Shostakovich.

The renowned Canadian mezzo-soprano, Jean Stilwell, will be joining them in two of these, Beethoven’s Four Scottish Lieder and Shostakovich’s Seven poems of Alexander Blok.

IF THE ROADCREWS ARE OUT, CAN THE BANDS BE FAR BEHIND?

With the arrival (we hope) of warm weather comes also the season of outdoor band concerts. A mere fourteen hours into June the Northdale Concert Band under veteran Faculty of Music trumpeter and bandsman, Stephen Chenette, will start it all with "Music in the Park" at Mel Lastman Square. On Wednesday, June 4, the Band of the Royal Danish Lifeguards with the Safri (percussion) Duo, will be playing a free concert at 12:30 at Nathan Philips Square. The same group will be doing a more formal concert the next evening, June 5, at Metropolitan United Church. Friday night, June 6, the Etobicoke Community Concert Band is taking over the Palais Royale Ballroom, presenting "Swinging at the Palais!" The program will be big band dance music. Seating will be cafe style and dancing encouraged but not mandatory!

Come to the Cavalcade

The Canadian Band Association will be presenting its out of the ordinary annual event, "Cavalcade of Winds" on Saturday, June 7 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Eight bands, including the G.T.A. Teachers' Wind Ensemble, from Southern Ontario will be performing for about half an hour each. Each group is encouraged to include new Canadian compositions in its program and has been asked to make available material showing rehearsal day/times and joining procedures for potential new members.

BAND CAMP IN THE CITY

When the term "band camp" comes up, it usually conjures up images of expensive lake side facilities, and every kind of "extracurricular" non-musical activity from tennis to water skiing.

Wonderful as these residential camps are, sometimes the price tag is just a little out of reach. There is now a less pricey alternative, competitive musically, but without the added cost of accommodation and non-musical camp activities. It is the Monterest School's summer band camp, a day camp that runs in three two week sessions from June 16 to July 25, right here in Toronto, near Broadview subway just south of Danforth.

It is the brainchild of Veronica Sherk, a teacher at Moncrest, graduate of U.of T. Faculty of Music, and co-founder of the Toronto Youth Wind Ensemble. Her collaborators will include Mark Hopkins, Music Director at Upper Canada College.

Each day will be divided into four periods including specialised instrumental work, band rehearsals, rhythm classes and instruction for beginners. Contact Veronica for registration or information at 469-2008, ext. 269.

CIRCUMPOLAR CIRCUMSTANCES

Toronto is host this month to the extraordinary "Northern Encounters" festival of the arts. With music as its core element, it is described by its producers, Soundstreams Canada, as "a celebration of the unique qualities the 'circumpolar' countries of the world share."

So what exactly are the unique qualities we eight northern nations share? Arguably we here in Toronto, immersed in our life of urban materialism, have more in common with the cities of temperate middle North America than with our fellow Canadians who live above the 60th parallel. It is certainly a feeling of emptiness, space and loneliness.

So, does this manifest itself in art? We have a magnificent opportunity right now to taste the experience and the work of our fellow northerners, and find out for ourselves what it is that we share. See you there.

FREE NOON

The number of free noon-hour concerts this month is extraordinary. (Northern Encounters is responsible for many of these.)

Another reason is a summer series, Music Mondays, at the Church of the Holy Trinity next door to the Eaton Centre. They will be presenting excellent local artists every Monday, except the 30th, at 12:15.

CHORAL WEALTH

June also brings a wealth of choral music.

One choral concert that has been long in preparation is the Amadeus Choir's "Heart of the Drum" on June 7th featuring music from or inspired by Africa for voices and drums.

Most famous piece on the program will be African Sanctus by English composer, David Fanshawe. The choir will also perform Songs from Ghana by Canadian percussionist, Kathy Armstrong, who has made several long visits to Ghana. Part of the preparation for the concert was a weekend workshop in which Ms. Armstrong worked with choir members on African drumming and dancing skills.

ANNIVERSARY

ARRAYMUSIC brings their 25th anniversary season to a close with a two events—one a concert featuring compositions by a dynamic group of international composers at the du Maurier Theatre Centre; the other, the 11th annual ARRAYMUSIC Young Composers' Workshop, which gives young composers the opportunity to prepare compositions for performance with coaching by established composers and with an experienced new music ensemble.

And speaking of "new", New Music Concerts' last concert of the season, Canadian Encounters, will take place on June 15 at the Glenn Gould Studio.

SUMMER ESCAPE

It is not too early to book tickets for the popular Elora Music Festival and the Festival of the Sound. Both have terrific rosters of performers and provide a great excuse for a trip away from the City.
There is no shortage of conflict and interest in Tears of Stone, the film about Icelandic composer, Jon Leifs, being shown by Cinematheque at the AGO June 21, as part of the Northern Exposures Festival.

Leifs, an Icelandic composer living in 1930s Germany with his Jewish wife and their child, has the opportunity to join the Nazi-approved Council of European Composers to advance his career. He refuses, further compromising a career already threatened by an earlier refusal to conduct concerts which do not include some of his own compositions.

The stuff of tragedy, with musicians at the centre.

TOO LATE TO LIST.

AUDITIONS!

The Toronto Mendelssohn Choir and the Toronto Mendelssohn Youth Choir, invite all, young and old, to audition for their upcoming 1997-1998 Seasons. Auditions are held annually for the next season, with all choir members re-auditioning each year. An accompanist is provided for all applicants. Those auditioning for the Adult Choir are asked to prepare an aria from Handel’s Messiah, those interested in auditioning for the Youth Choir are asked to prepare a piece of their choice. This year’s Youth Choir auditions will be held June 11th and 12th. The Adult Choir auditions will be held on Monday evenings during the month of June.

For further information on auditions call:

Reward Offered for Basses

The Toronto Camerata, the city’s premier a cappella chamber choir, has two openings for bass/baritones for the 1997-1998 season—a year featuring works by Bach, Brahms, Chatman, Debussy, Druckman, Ginastera, Schuetz, Tallis, and Peter Schickele—and will offer a free CD ("Live at Glenn Gould Studio") to anyone supplying the name of a bass/baritone accepted into the group. Telephone Arthur Wenk, 905-841-6482 (or e-mail: awenk@sac.on.ca) for further information.

Phone: 705-746-2410
Fax: 705-746-5639

Artistic Director:
James Campbell
Administrator:
Margaret Boyd

The 1997 Festival of the Sound will open Friday July 18 with members of the Toronto Mendelssohn Choir and the newlyformed Festival Brass.

Hear great piano music as the three Laureates of the prestigious Esther Honens Calgary International Piano Competition perform (July 19,20). A Baroque Weekend (July 25,26) includes a baroque violin recital, Vivaldi’s Venice and the Bach Consort.

Chamber Music is the heart of the Festival.

James Campbell programs favourites from the chamber music repertoire and new works to challenge and inspire.

Noon Concerts will be preceded by discussions moderated by CBC host, Peter Togni.

From the well-loved works of J.S. Bach to world premieres by Heather Schmidt and Phil Nimmons, from a sunrise cruise on M.V. Chippewa to sunset cruises on the Island Queen, the Festival of the Sound offers a wide menu for every taste. There are over 50 musical events between July 18 and August 10, 1997.
