THE TORONTO SCHOOL OF MUSIC? WHERE'S THE GOVERNMENT?

I got a surprising phone call several weeks ago from a colleague: there is all of a sudden a new music school in Toronto, one with ambitious plans, a huge building and strong artistic leadership.

It is the Toronto School of Music, brainchild of musicians Colin Yip and Mary Liu. Chinese by birth and now Canadian citizens, both have won international music competitions, have toured the world as recitalists, and have masters degrees from the Manhattan School of Music.

Together they have chosen Toronto to be their home, where they intend to raise a family and realize their dream of establishing a music school.

The point is, this is a private school on a scale we're not accustomed to around here -- a comprehensive music education facility, with plans to provide everything from elementary level instruction on piano, strings and woodwinds to professional level instruction for both singers and instrumentalists.

With the financial support of a backer who has bought them the building at 366 Bay Street, and with the artistic support of Canadian soprano and former Canada Council chair, Maureen Forrester, they are off to a flying start.

Asked how the school might differ from the other music schools already in existence here, Ms. Liu spoke of the many professional musicians who had given up good positions in conservatories, orchestras and opera Wholenote's members are a vibrant cross-section of the community whose artistry we celebrate, support and promote. Once a year (usually in the summer or the first issue of the new season) each member provides a "profile" like the 31 that follow here, providing a glimpse of what is in store for us musically in the 1997-98 season. They may be helpful to you in doing some early planning. They will be extremely helpful to us in planning our next year of the wholenote.

New members are always welcome; membership brings important benefits to members, such as a 33% discount on advertising, the annual publication of these member profiles, and from the beginning of next season, the right to contribute news snippets to our Concert Notes.

Additionally, this August 8 we will be having a draw from the names of all new or returning members for $2400 in prizes.
For membership information, phone (416) 406-6758.

ACADEMY CONCERT SERIES

Tel: (416) 778-1941

Artistic Director: Nicola Tarasov

Mailing Address: 73 Boston Ave.,
 Toronto, M4M 2T8

The Academy Concert Series continues its tradition of presenting marvellous chamber music from the baroque and classical periods played by Toronto's top performers on historical instruments.

After a successful season this past year that included spectacular performances as well as recordings for CBC and CJRT, Artistic Director (and clarinetist) Nicola Tarasov has created a new season that will delight chamber music lovers. Among the many superb performers featured this season are Jean Lamon, Christina Mahler, John Abberger, Linda Melsted and Derek Conrad. Join us in the outstanding acoustics of Eastminster Church (310 Danforth Avenue) to experience a sublime evening of music as it was heard in the Great Masters' days.

To receive a 1997/98 Season brochure, please call (416) 778-1941.

The Aldeburgh Connection specializes in concerts of vocal and piano music, presented each season through two concert series. Our Sunday Series in Walter Hall offers concerts of music and readings, each built around a theme. This season we visit the worlds of Wagner, English titled composers Sir Hubert Parry and Lord Berners, and the German romantic poet Heinrich Heine, along with a special concert in celebration of our friend and honorary patron Lois Marshall.

Our Recital Series, in the Glenn Gould Studio, presents three Canadian singers in solo recital: the exceptional young baritone James Westman, who will also be making his New York debut recital this year; soprano Adrienne Pieczonka, who is forging a stellar international career on opera stages around the world; and one of Canada's best-loved baritones Mark Pedrotti, whose busy career in Australia and New Zealand makes his Toronto appearances a rare treat. The Parlour Grand

Remember when piano benches were filled with those albums called Everybody's Favorite Piano Solos? They contained hundreds of selections from the salon repertoire. The books are still found, but much of the music they contain is seldom performed.

Robert Silverman believes it's time to remove the dust that these popular melodies have collected over the past few generations. Volumes 1 & 2 each contain eighteen favourites from a bygone era, performed on a small grand piano in a salon-sized hall.

"Crisp, wholly uncondescending performances that remind us anew why these pieces were everybody's favourites."

THE BANDSTAND

SUMMER CONCERTS IN THE PARK

The Bandstand is a column devoted to the band scene in and about Toronto. Hopefully we will keep you informed about events, concerts, news and all banding info. If we miss something you know about, let us know. This column is written by John McGuigan, currently the executive secretary of the CANADIAN BAND ASSOCIATION (Ontario chapter). John's other hat is that of the publisher of COMPRINT a new catalogue of Canadian music for bands, schools, and community music organizations, COMPRINT has currently available about thirty new titles at various difficulty levels for band, and about twenty-five titles of choral music. He also edits the CBA FANFARE magazine.

The summer is upon us and that is good news for community concert bands. Ontario has a rich tradition of music concerts in the parks over the last century. Right across our country and particularly in the Ontario countryside, community concert bands are busy preparing a variety of music, to entertain large audiences. People come by the hundreds to listen to Concert Band Concerts in parks and bandshells, on beautiful summer evenings, sometimes beside lakes and often blessed by cool evening breezes coaxed out of the sky by the cool music.

Usually the customers are asked to bring their own lawn chairs for seating. Some even enjoy their picnic dinners prior to the concert. The music is usually light and predominantly familiar. Some adventurous bands test out their latest music acquisitions on the usually supportive audience. Sometimes the bands are made up of local musicians, but often bands will travel many miles to present concerts away from home. Audiences are encouraged to give free will contributions to the organizers of these events. Mostly the musicians play for the love of it but their groups do need to pay for the transportation, music, and catering of these concerts. Any contribution of a dollar or two is welcomed to defray these costs which are not often borne by the shrinking budgets of our local governments.

There are many venues around the GTA Area where Sunday afternoon or evening concerts are regularly presented throughout the summer. At the risk of leaving out some of the places, here is a partial list of venues where a concert in the park can be enjoyed almost free.

Cobourg Bandshell, Stratford Bandshell, Gravenhurst Music on the Barge, Kitchener/Waterloo, London, Orillia Aquatheatre, Oakville Bandshell, Etobicoke Centennial Park, Hamilton Dundurn Park and Mel Lastman Square in North York.

One of the more interesting concerts planned is a concert by the Orillia Concert Band on Sunday June 29th in the Couchiching Park Aquatheatre at 7:00 pm. Bob Plunkett, who has conducted the band for ten years, is retiring from this position and the concert will honour his participation. Bob will conduct a few numbers and there will be a reception afterwards.

Following is a list of concerts in July that have come to our attention. June 29th Muskoka District Band Gravenhurst On the Barge 7:30 pm; July 1st Etobicoke Com. CB Centennial Park 11:45 am; July 6th Brampton CB Orillia Aquatheatre 7:00pm; July 6th Gravenhurst Bi-focals Band 7:30 pm; July 9th Etobicoke Com CB Broadacres Pk in Etobicoke; July 13th Barrie CB Orillia Aquatheatre 7:00pm; July 13th Canadian Tribute to Glen Miller Mel Lastman Sq. North York 7:30pm; July 14th Canadian Tribute to Glen Miller Kingston Summer Festival Regina Rosen Aud. 8:00 pm; July 17th North York CB Mel Lastman Sq. North York 7:30 pm; July 20th North York CB Orillia Aquatheatre 7:00 pm; July 20th Mississauga CB at Gravenhurst on the Barge. 7:30 pm; July 26th Festival of the Sound Big Brass Concert 12:00 noon; July 27th Mariposa Jazz Band Orillia Aquatheatre 7:00 pm; July 27th RHLI Band Park Concert at Hamilton Dundurn Park 2:00pm; July 30th Etobicoke Com CB Broadacres Pk Etobicoke; July 31st National Band of the Naval reserve Molson Place Harbourfront 7:00; July 31st Etobicoke CB Mel Lastman Sq. North York 7:30 pm

Band-Aid '97

In finishing this column I would like to mention that the CBA plans a Band Clinic on Sept 27th of this year and hopes to attract a large attendance to this clinic for band conductors, teachers and musicians. Keep the date open and watch for further announcements about this special event for bands.

MUSIC REMAINS WHOLE IN THE CITY'S SUMMER

BY CHRISTOPHER DAWES

Ten months a year, our beloved Wholenote voraciously stuffs itself full of our concerts, even pursuing delinquent presenters and publicity alsorans who have failed to come up with delights for its insatiable appetite by press time.

Yet, when the elation of a long-awaited spring melts into summer, Toronto smog begins its inexorable descent on the lungs of the city, and sprinklers begin overcompensating for nature's rains long-since driven away ... then, terrified, burnt-out presenters and, according to mythology, all decent concert-going folk flee 'en masse' to cottage country.

Or do they? Though I'm performing or relaxing out of town during nine out of this summer's twelve-or-so weeks, I'll always think of Toronto as a place of music, and of the people who make, and LIVE it, twelve months out of twelve. Arts events enjoy undiminished support during Toronto's summer, boosted by the ever-monied tourist, and by a growing population whose work life cools off when the streets heat up, releasing them to leisure, guided solely by the sense of freedom and spontaneity which only beautiful weather and scant clothing bring.

With apologies to Elora, Sharon, Festival of the Sound and others trying vainly to pursue the fleeing country-seeking masses, my musical heart will remain here, with many classical/new music presenters who feel Toronto should be neither silent, nor subsumed by 'Molson Rocks' and other summer "art" phenomena.

If you have time on your hands, consider spending it on the music that continues to flow through the veins of this publication. I know I will -- here, and wherever the summer breezes find me.

Christopher Dawes, Director of Communications, Royal Canadian College of Organists, assistant organist at the Cathedral Church of St. James, and artistic director of Organ Alternatives, is himself responsible for one of these oases of music, a series of eight short concerts, mostly organ recitals, every Sunday in July and August at 4:00 at St. James' Cathedral.

2. The Elora Festival's elaborate plans are also well covered in our listings. Use our index on page 31 as a short cut.
3. There are three festivals in the nation's capital this summer.

The first is Festival Canada, June 18 - July 19 (highlights include Benjamin Britten's The Prodigal Son, tenor Richard Margison, and Victor Davies' Revelation.) Call 1-888-910-ARTS (2787).

Second is the Ottawa International Jazz Festival, July 18-27; and third is The Ottawa Chamber Music Festival, July 26 to August 8, featuring the Allegri and Tokyo String Quartets. (The Chamber Festival's Music of Our Time mini festival July 31 and August 1, will be dedicated to music by contemporary composers. The Festival can be reached at 613-234-8008. Its web site is www.interlog.com/~ei/ocmf/.

4. One of the most unusual summer festivals is the Altamira Symphony in the Barn Summer Festival in Durham, Ontario, north of Guelph. Artistic Director, Michael Schmidt, will present fourteen events, including two orchestral concerts, an opera by Mozart and an operetta by Lehar in the barn of his operational organic farm. For tickets and information, phone 1-800-967-9291.
5. Looking ahead we see Patria Musical Productions' The Princess and the Stars by R. Murray Schafer on September 12, 13 and 14, beginning at dawn on Wildcat Lake in Haliburton. Attending means getting on a chartered bus in Toronto at midnight and at 4:30 a.m. transferring to another which takes you to the site of the performance.

Other Music Festivals to contact for information:

- The Huntsville Festival of the Arts, June 27 to July 20, 1-800-663-2787.

the 115-voice Amadeus Choir of Greater Toronto will offer four concerts in its 1997-98 Subscription Series.

On November 8, 1997 the Choir will present Mass Grandeur with orchestra, featuring Schubert's Mass in B flat and Haydn's joyous Nelson Mass.

Our two popular Celebrate with Brass! concerts will be given on December 14 at 3 pm and 8 pm. The Choir, with the Bach Children's Chorus as guests, will perform winning compositions of its 11th Christmas Carol and Chanukah Song Writing Competition, along with traditional holiday favourites.

On April 4, 1998 the Glorious Mozart program will begin with the composer's Jupiter Symphony and conclude with his Great Mass in C minor. The June 7, 1998 concert, Viva la Diva, stars soprano/comedienne Mary Lou Fallis in solo and joint repertoire with choir, including the premiere of songs by John Greer.

Combine the full, rich sound of a twelve-member string orchestra with the intimate, relaxed surroundings of Glenn Gould Studio, and you will begin to understand why people are re-discovering the Amadeus Ensemble concert series.

The 1997/98 season opens with the full Ensemble on October 26, 1997, and runs until May 3, 1998. Included on the series is a very special concert on March 28, 1998 when the Ensemble will perform with the acclaimed Elmer Iseler Singers.

Guest soloists have become a popular part of our series, and this tradition continues next season. On January 25, 1998 pianist Robert Kortgaard will join violinist Moshe Hammer performing the music by Prokofiev, Mozart and Grieg, while on February 22, harpist Judy Loman will be accompanied by Moshe and members of the Ensemble. Finally, the Duke Piano Trio will appear on December 14, 1997.

Join us for all six Sunday evening concerts. It's a great way to wind down your weekend!

Mailing Address: 23 Mossbank Drive, Scarborough, M1G 2C1

Founded in 1987 by conductor Linda Beaupré, the Bach Children's Chorus now totals 200 singers, aged 6 and up in four choirs. They have developed a reputation throughout Metropolitan Toronto for their beautiful, musical sound and professional approach.

In September 1996, the fourth choir was started, the Bach Chamber Youth Choir. This choir is made up of eighteen young people and the objective of this choir is to provide a choir in which girls aged 15 and up and boys with changed or changing voices can experience quality SATB music.

Each of the choirs regularly participates in weekend excursions involving festivals, workshops and concerts with other youth choirs. Recently, 34 members of Choir III toured to the Dekalb International Choral Festival in Atlanta, Georgia.

In 1995, the Bach Children's Chorus released their first solo CD, Here's To Song and are presently working on a second CD to be released in 1998.

Auditions for placement in the Bach Children's Chorus take place in June. Extra auditions are held in November for a limited number of positions. For more information on the Bach Children's Chorus, phone (416) 431-0790.

The Canadian Children's Opera Chorus is celebrating its 30th anniversary in 1997-98.

Last season included guest performances with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, the Canadian Opera Company Ensemble and The National Ballet of Canada, school outreach programs, and concerts at the Glenn Gould Studio and Orillia Opera House, culminating in 12 enormously successful performances of Gilbert and Sullivan's operetta H.M.S. Pinafore at Toronto's Hart House Theatre and in Northern Ontario. Kirkland Lake, Cobalt and Sudbury choral workshops and performances Pinafore received bravos and standing ovations from capacity audiences.

In 1997-98, mezzo-soprano Catherine Robbin will join the CCOC for the Winter Concert, November 29 and 30 at the Glenn Gould Studio. The chorus will again sing with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra in June, and members of the CCOC will appear in 3 Canadian Opera Company productions -- Turandot, Hansel and Gretel and The Cunning Little Vixen. As well, the CCOC will perform Malcolm Williamson's opera, Julius Caesar Jones at the duMaurier Theatre, Harbourfront, May 7 to 10, 1998.

Under the superb musical direction of conductor John Tuttle, the 70 member CCOC continues to excel. Join us in celebration of 30 years of outstanding choral music.

The mission of the Canadian Music Competitions (CMC) is to assist and promote the country's most talented young people in developing professional musical careers. In the 1997-8 concert season, we are proud to expand our concert presentations to the eight-part Symphony of Celebration Op. 97 No. 8 Concert Series and the four-part CMC Newman Centre Sunday Matinées.

These series fulfill the CMC's double mandate of organizing competitions to foster musical excellence and presenting star winners on stage to enhance their performance experiences. In the past, musicians like Martin Beaver, Louis Lortie and Ofra Harnoy have all been winners of our Competitions. This proud tradition continues in our young artists featured in the Symphony of Celebration and Newman Centre concert series. May the Canadian musical heritage flourish with these young talents!

Since its inception in 1986 Mooredale Concerts has become one of the most exciting and successful enterprises in Toronto. Designed for the whole family, great classical music performances feature top professionals as well as brilliant young artists.

A total of 17 concerts will be presented (11 different programs) in 1997-98 at Walter Hall, Willowdale United Church and at Rosedale Heights School. Within one series, enjoy instrumental soloists, chamber music, full symphony orchestra, vocal soloists and choral works.

Mooredale brings to audiences well-known and neglected works. Each concert is full of variety. A typical concert could include a short violin piece by a Canadian composer, a string trio by Boccherini and the Brahms Clarinet Quintet.

And each event includes human stories about the composers in between pieces, enhancing audience appreciation.

Mooredale Concerts keeps ticket prices very low. You can hear a concert for $5 (in subscription), and has a terrific loyal following in a friendly and informal atmosphere.

Music TORONTO presents the world's finest chamber music and piano recitals, featuring both international and Canadian artists. 1997-98 will include 19 concerts in 5 series, all taking place in the acoustically superior Jane Mallett Theatre of the St. Lawrence Centre for the Arts in downtown Toronto.

Our international quartet series includes the Arditti Quartet, the Berlin Philharmonic Quartet, the Colorado, the Emerson, the Penderecki, the Shostakovich, the Stamic Quartet of Prague and the Tokyo.

Piano recitalists are Rieko Aizawa, Cyprien Katsaris, Antonin Kubalek, James Parker and Grigory Sokolov.

The St. Lawrence String Quartet has its own series, with guests artists the Ying Quartet and pianists Stephen Prutsman and Pedja Muzijevic.

Young Artist Showcase concerts -- just $12 -- feature baritone Brett Polegato, Quatuor Arthur LeBlanc with violist Rivka Golani and a chamber music evening with Martin Beaver, David Harding, Brian Epperson and Simon Wynberg.

Music TORONTO pioneered the $5 ticket for students of all ages. Accessible, exhilarating, intimate -- chamber music downtown.

Musica Viva, one of Canada's most accomplished and versatile chamber ensembles began in Toronto in 1980 as a trio of flute (Vicki Blechta), cello (Grigory Goldberg) and piano (Cecilia Ignatieff). Since then, the group has expanded to include oboist Senia Trabashnik and other 'friends' including mezzo soprano and viola. This unusual blend allows Musica Viva to offer out-of-the-ordinary repertoire from baroque to the present.

The ensemble has appeared throughout Ontario, has been on international French television, and has been broadcast live (from Glenn Gould Studio, CBC Toronto).

In November 1995, the group released their disc Entre Nous, a collection of works written this century, referred to by one CBC announcer as just plain beautiful 20th century music. Their next disc, scheduled for 1998, will feature a recently commissioned Suite of Dances, written for Musica Viva by well known Canadian composer Larysa Kuzmenko.

Their 1997 tour of European centres includes London, the Hague, Brussels and Edinburgh.

The Opera School continues to present the finest of Canada's young singers, the stars of tomorrow, in a variety of events, all taking place in Toronto's best little opera house, the MacMillan Theatre.

The upcoming season includes two major productions; early masterpieces by two of the greatest opera composers: Mozart's La finta giardiniera (Nov. 21, 22 & 23, 1997) is conducted by Mario Bernardi and directed by Marilyn Grondal Powell; Stephen Ralls will conduct, and Michael Patrick Albano direct, Britten's Paul Bunyan (March 13, 14, 20 & 21, 1998). Other events include Opera Teas (October 22 & January 18) and a programme of operetta and musical comedy (May 1 & 2).

Founded in 1992 by Toronto performer, writer and broadcaster Christopher Dawes, Organ Alternatives is a production/communications company dedicated to the future of the organ as a performing instrument, and a venue for new artistic creation. OA publishes a quarterly newsletter featuring interviews, articles, recording and concert reviews, and listings of concerts and broadcasts happening throughout Southern Ontario, and in New York and Quebec border communities (annual subscription: $10). The company also creates and presents innovative performance and touring programmes celebrating the King of Instruments, and using it in combination with drama, dance, film, storytelling, poetry and other art forms. OA also operates TELETIX, a 24-hour information/ticket service for small, classical concert presenters which dispenses their recorded and faxed concert information on demand, and accepts VISA and MasterCard ticket reservations for their events. Patria Music/Theatre Projects has an ambitious mandate! It promotes and produces new works of music/theatre by Canadian composers and playwrights, both nationally and abroad. It also develops the talent of young performing artists, encouraging their work in Canadian music/theatre.

Two productions intrinsic to Patria's vision are almost upon us. And Wolf Shall Inherit the Moon (August 15th to 23rd) features 60 participants performing the epilogue to R. Murray Schafer's Patria Cycle in the Algonquin wilderness. West German Radio, Cologne and CBC will simultaneously broadcast selections from this event. Schafer's The Princess of the Stars (September 12th to 14th) is a spectacular dawn concert/drama staged on Wildcat Lake. Singers, actors, dancers and fabulous animals animate the score.

Internationally, Patria prepares for a Brazilian production of The Enchanted Forest.

Keep abreast of it through Patria's quarterly Newsletter which outlines global and homefront activities.

Welcome to our 18th season!
 Highlights of the 1997/98 season include Khachaturian's Masquerade Suite and Scarborough mezzo soprano Frances Pappas performing works under the direction of Dairine Ni Mheadra.

Rimsky-Korsakov's spectacular Sheherezade will be featured in November along with soloists Maggie Moser, oboe and Jiewon Kim, violin from the SPO conducted by Gary Kulesha.

Principal Pops conductor Howard Cable returns to delight our audience with his arrangements in You Must Remember This. Joining Howard will be pianist Gene DiNovi.

Our family concert is 100% Canadian this year and will include a musical setting of the children's story, Jeremy's Decision, led by Boris Brott.

Our season finale features Mozart's Piano Concerto No. 21 and Mahler's Symphony No. 1 with conductor Jerome Summers and pianist Jason Li, the second Canadian to ever reach the semi-finals of the Tchaikovsky international Piano competition.

Great news! The Shevchenko Musical Ensemble, Toronto's unique combination of male chorus, mandolin orchestra and folk dancers, after 46 years now welcomes female voices to its ranks.

Its mission, reflected in a repertoire of folk, classical and contemporary music of Ukraine, Canada and other lands, remains unchanged--to perpetuate the finest of Ukrainian musical traditions and weave them with those of other Canadians.

With an impressive record of performances of the highest calibre, each Ensemble component (choir, orchestra or dance troupe) can perform on its own, but the Ensemble's uniqueness lies in its exciting presentations as a unified 90-person ensemble.

The highlight of the first concert of concert of the Shevchenko School of Performing Arts for children (offering classes in folk dance, mandolin, voice and drama) was Prokofiev's Peter and the Wolf arranged and choreographed for mandolin orchestra, narrator and young dancers. It is already booked for further performances in Toronto and Niagara Falls.

Adults and children alike are welcome to join the Shevchenko Musical Ensemble and School at Columbus Centre. Call our office for further information.

Sine Nomine (est. 1991) brings the vocal and instrumental music of the Middle Ages vividly to life. The group has appeared in Toronto and other Ontario cities, Montreal, Boston, and Leeds, England, and has been broadcast on CBC, CJRT, and American Public Radio.

The group's first commercial CD, A Golden Treasury of Mediaeval Music (Saydisc/Amon Ra, 1996), has been recommended by the American Record Guide as a first-rate introduction to the repertoire; Sine Nomine also provided the music for the award-winning PBS CD-ROM Inside the Vatican (1995).

In 1997-98, Sine Nomine (with various featured guests) presents four main concerts:

October 17, the Cabot voyages, and Native (Mi'kmaq) traditions;
 December 19, Christmas, including material from liturgical drama;
 February 20, King Arthur and the Round Table; April 24, Contacts with the East; Fridays at 8 pm, at St. Stephen-in-the-Fields, 365 College. Tickets $10/7, subscriptions $36/25. Dates and location subject to confirmation.

1997/98 is Tafelmusik's 19th season of performing baroque and classical music on period instruments. Winner of the 1996 Echo Klassic Award for Best Orchestra of the Year, Tafelmusik is pleased to announce its Toronto season at Trinity-St. Paul's United Church in the heart of Toronto's Annex district.

The virtuosity and artistry of Tafelmusik and Music Director Jeanne Lamon will be displayed in programmes featuring the works of Bach, Handel, Rameau, Corelli, Vivaldi and Haydn. Cellist Anner Bylsma and recorder virtuoso Marion Verbruggen return to Tafelmusik's season and Dutch violinist Vera Beths will perform Beethoven's beloved Violin Concerto. Among the more intriguing programmes will be a concert version of Mozart's first opera, Bastien et Bastienne.

The Tafelmusik Chamber Choir, under the director Ivar Taurins, will perform Haydn's Nelson Mass and Handel's Dixit Dominus and will also be featured in a programme devoted to music by Henry Purcell with renowned British tenor Paul Agnew. The choral highlight of the year promises to be Bach's St. John Passion at Yorkminster Park Baptist Church. And, of course, the Tafelmusik season would not be complete without performances of Handel's Messiah and the ever-popular Sing-Along Messiah.

The 1997 season of Theatrefix Arts Festival will take place between July 17th and July 26th at Alumni Hall Theatre (121 St. Joseph St.) on the University of Toronto campus. We are thrilled to present an opera night (July 21st), an evening of jazz with George Thurgood (July 22nd), the Aubergine Wind Trio (July 23rd) and last year's hit Canadian cowpunk musical, The Yeehaa Cowboys (July 17, 18, 19, 24, 25, 26).

Theatrefix is truly unique. There is no other organization of its type in Toronto, especially in the downtown core in mid-summer. We are run exclusively by youth volunteers, who have devoted their time to bring the talent of their peers to both the artistic community and the community at large.

The event itself is also markedly different than anything else offered. How many endeavours provide so much diversity for so little cost ($12 adult; $10 student/senior)? Where else could you find Ellington, Mozart and Stompin' Tom Connors references in one place? Only Theatrefix can provide such delights.

The Toronto Latvian Concert

Association returns to Jane Mallett Theatre next fall to celebrate its 39th consecutive season with some of the finest Latvian performers from around the world.

On October 22, we present The TransAtlantic Trio featuring pianist/composer Peteris Plakidis, cellist Ivars Bezprozvanovs, both from Latvia and American clarinetist Eric Mandat. Expect at least one premiere!

Pianist Armands Abols, from Chile, performs on November 26. This multiple competition winner returns after a very successful appearance here in 1993.

On March 11, 1998 we will hear Toronto's own Vilma Indra Vitols, mezzo soprano. This wonderful singer is quickly establishing a solid reputation, both here and in England, with her expressive performances and her intelligent and imaginative programming.

The final concert features soprano Inese Galante (Date TBA). Her recent CD of opera favorites received rave reviews from Europe and landed her leading roles at Covent Garden.

Our Toronto concert 2pm start time has proven popular, as has our tradition of featuring a gifted young artist at each performance sponsored by George Heintz and Co. Conductor Victor Feldbrill will continue to delight.

Three Thursday afternoon concerts in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church (King and Simcoe) comprise the upcoming Toronto season. Stephen Tam, flute is featured October 23 (Boyce, Bach, Brahms and Britten). Handel, Haydn, Bocherini, and Arensky will be heard April 6 with special guests, the Children's Choir from Willowdale Middle School. And the June 4 concert presents works by Bach and Dvorak and the moving In memoriam Primo Levi by John Reeves with mezzo Susan Boyes.

The TSS is also booked to play three out of town concerts in Brockville, Durham and Port Perry.

Music on Thursday afternoon at 1:30 pm. Join the excitement of our 100th season. Founded in 1898, the Women's Musical Club of Toronto is dedicated to presenting chamber music performances of the highest quality.

Our Centennial Season starts with Heidi Grant Murphy on October 23, 1997. This shimmering soprano has appeared with the world's finest opera companies and symphony orchestras.

On November 27, 1997, we are proud to present Jeanie Chung, piano, winner of our prestigious Career Development Award.

On January 22, 1998, we are the first to present the Paris Piano Trio in Toronto. Described as the best in France, this trio has won acclaim throughout Europe.

On February 19, 1998, hear the Talich String Quartet, as scintillating as champagne, featuring music by great Czech composers.

On March 19, 1998, we present Sophie Rolland, cello, and Marc-André Hamelin, piano. A duo performance by these two outstanding Canadians is a rare and special occasion.

Five concerts for only $90.00. Single tickets $22.00 at the door.

All organizations and individuals presenting concerts listed in the wholenote are eligible to become wholenote supporting members. All new and renewed memberships for the 1997-98 season received by August 8 will entered in a draw for $2400 in prizes. For further information, call 416-406-6758.

houses elsewhere in order to live in Canada. Many of them are now underemployed, teaching privately or working in areas other than music. So the school provides these musicians employment at what they do best, and makes an underutilized resource available to the community. And multicultural Toronto gets a truly international music school, with instruction available in a variety of languages.

New York, Ms Liu points out, accommodates six major music schools. In her opinion, Toronto easily had room for another.

Already the school's professional opera program is under way, complete with masterclasses with an impressive array of internationally renowned teachers.

We will be keeping you up to date on the school's development.

HOLY FAMILY CHURCH

Less happy was the news that the Church of the Holy Family, referred to by John Tuttle in an earlier WholeNote article on liturgical music, was destroyed by fire early in June. During the reconstruction the two sung Sunday masses will be next door in the Holy Family School gym, where the acoustics according to organist/choirmaster, Peter Bishop, are surprisingly good. Daily weekday masses are being held at Parkdale United Church, which offered its help immediately after the fire.

Musicians in our Midst: Portrait #3

Gary Kulesha

On our cover this month, Gary Kulesha -- a Toronto native who has earned an enviable international reputation as a composer while maintaining an active career in his home city.

This summer he will be equally involved in music in Toronto and outside it. In Toronto he will conduct the Composers' Orchestra, on July 26. Out of town, at the Festival of the Sound, he is responsible for the "Discovery" series of concerts of music by young composers. Both are the outcome of workshops with "emergent" composers, whose cause is a passionate concern for Gary.

This concern has been at the forefront of his activities in one of his other jobs. For the past two years as composer-in-residence with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra he has been instrumental in bringing together the TSO and promising young Canadian composers, such as Kelly Marie Murphy, Jeff Ryan and Barbara Croall.

Gary understands the situation of the unrecognized composer as well as anyone. He wrote his first composition at the age of eight and around the age of 17 began composition lessons with Sam Dolan. After finishing high school he made private composition studies the focal point of his post-secondary school education. He earned his ARCT in composition and then with the help of Canada Council grants continued his studies first with John McCabe in London, England and then with John Corigliano in New York. At the age of eighteen he received his first commission, a march, for the Scarborough Concert Band. The deal included copying the parts (a lot of work) and conducting it, all for the less than princely sum of fifty dollars!

Gary Kulesha has created a highly individual career path in which he is making an extraordinary contribution to the cultural life of the community and the individual lives of a growing number of aspiring composers.
